

Applicability

SHIPMA is used in port design and inland waterway studies so as to give the designer an insight into the inherent possibilities and restrictions of vessels in relation to the infrastructure and environmental conditions. It is particularly applicable in comparative studies to evaluate several designs [KOEMAN, a.o., 1983].