

Software Support And Documentation

Thank you for purchasing this MARIN software or simulator product.

MARIN supplies documentation for the latest version and earlier versions of every MARIN software or simulator product. MARIN encourages you to give feedback on your software or simulator products and its documentation.

In order for you to be able to use the online documentation and to request support, you have to provide a list of users who need access. Send an email to support@marin.nl with the company name, full name of the user, and the users' email address. You will receive a single username and password to access both the online documentation and the issue tracking system.

MARIN Online Documentation System

MARIN provides user and theoretical manuals for each product. The latest version and earlier versions of these manuals will be available online in our MARIN Online Documentation System, MODS.

MARIN user and theoretical manuals are available at: <http://mods.marin.nl>. This page provides links to all our user and theoretical manuals.

MARIN Issue Tracking System

MARIN recommends using the MARIN Issue Tracking System if you need support on your MARIN software or simulator products. All your feedback and support issues will be registered and our support engineers will be able to efficiently handle your requests. You can provide your feedback in our MARIN Issue Tracking System (MITS) as issue which can be either a remark, bug or even a feature request.

MARIN Issue tracking is available at: <http://mits.marin.nl>
