Ping error

When the Ping command [1] is not allowed on a network, Quaestor will give a message box informing you that www.quaestor.org is currently not available.

blocked URL

You could continue offline. In that case Quaestor will try to get documentation from its default offline location. However, in addition to possible lack of availablility, the reason for this message could be that the firewall of your organisation does not allow the Ping operation[2].

Please deselect "Ping check www.quaestor.org" in the General tab of Tools>Options... and try again (it might be that you have to restart Quaestor when you had answered No in the above message box to continue offline).

General user interface